Welcome

It is my privilege to present the full programme of the 2014 City of London Festival.

Over three weeks outstanding artists will bring life and vitality to the amazing places and spaces of the Square Mile including our own new pop-up venue in Paternoster Square, the Bowler Hat (details from p.8). This is one of our biggest ever programmes with over 250 events in 50 venues, with half of them free of charge.

The City played host to the President of South Korea, Park Geun-hye, in November and we are delighted to be following up her state visit with a number of events under the title 'Seoul in the City' including a unique Anglo-Korean performance of Beethoven's 9th Symphony in St Paul's Cathedral.

You can find more information and background to the Festival on our website colf.org and stay connected with us on Facebook or Twitter for regular updates.

Paul Gudgin, Festival Director

Singing, soccer and street guitars fill the outdoors, with over 120 free events.

Rock the Boat Street Guitars are ready to be played in City beauty spots, Premier League football clubs and children's writers join forces for our Storybook World Cup, and the Bowler Hat is brimming with a new programme of free and ticketed children's theatre, dance, circus, comedy and cabaret. More than 50 schools have contributed this year, including the Festival Children's Parade with over 1,400 children presenting classic children's stories, while Musical Meeting Place sees nine primary schools and nine offices singing together in work-places. Join us for Melodians Steel Orchestra presenting Jeremy Deller's English Magic, Guixot de 8's marvellous Sculpture Scribble and Factoria Circular's giant music wheel Rodafonio – just some of the events filling our squares and gardens this summer!

Ruth Oakley, Head of Outdoor Events and Participation

How to Book

Book online at colf.org (reduced booking fee applies) or call the Barbican box office on 0845 120 7502 (booking fee applies).

Book in person at the Advance box office in the Barbican, or at the City Information Centre, south of St Paul's Cathedral (no booking fee).

To make the Festival as accessible as possible to a wide range of audiences we heavily subsidise all ticketed concerts to ensure that prices are as low as possible. Tickets start from just £5 for our Cathedral concerts.

Orchestral concerts

Wren's awe-inspiring St Paul's Cathedral and the opulent Georgian Mansion House are transformed into concert venues for the City of London Festival. Experience these architectural jewels in the City's crown, alongside London's newest, state-of-the-art concert hall, Milton Court, for our renowned orchestral series.

Thursday 3 July 8.00pm

St Paul's Cathedral

London Symphony Orchestra
Daniel Harding conductor

Bruckner Symphony No 9
Penderecki Threnody for the Victims of Hiroshima

Bruckner's stirring symphonies have been described as 'cathedrals in sound'. The combination of St Paul's Cathedral, Bruckner's magnificent ninth Symphony and the charismatic leadership of young conductor Daniel Harding make for a very special occasion.

The brilliant LSO were commended for their recent live recording of Bruckner's masterpiece, playing with 'a transparency and poise that cuts through even the most climactic, brass-laden fortissimos' * The Guardian. Don't miss the chance to hear them perform it live in the stunning setting of St Paul's.

Tickets £48, £42, £32, £25, £15, £10 and £5

The City's Great Halls

A key feature of the Festival has long been the concerts held in the City's opulent Livery Halls – the ancient headquarters of the City's trading bodies, which still thrive today as Worshipful Companies. These intimate performances offer an exclusive chance for you to explore the glorious surroundings of venues not usually open to the public.

Monday 23 June 7.30pm

Drapers' Hall, Throgmorton Street

The Fateful Voyage

James Gilchrist tenor

Iain Burnside piano

Matthew Cammelle narrator

This unique recital, structured around the story of a voyage to the front, pays homage to composers, some now almost forgotten, who enlisted and were killed in the First World War. The programme focusses on the friendship between two composers and a poet – FS Kelly, William Denis Browne and Rupert Brooke – who sailed together to the Dardanelles and died soon after. Their extraordinary creative friendship and their deaths generated forgotten poems and music, and had a lasting impact on surviving contemporaries.

Programme devised by Dr Kate Kennedy.

Commonwealth Connections with Nicola Benedetti

Special guests include:

Duncan Chisholm Quartet Mzansi Youth Choir

As Glasgow puts the final touches to preparations for the 2014 Commonwealth Games, a taste of Scotland and the Commonwealth comes to the City of London.

Nicola Benedetti's latest musical adventure is both a departure and a homecoming: learning fiddle technique from Aly Bain and triumphantly opening this year's Celtic Connections festival in Glasgow, here Nicola collaborates with some of Scotland's top traditional musicians, including vocalist Julie Fowlis, multi-instrumentalist Phil Cunningham and fiddler Duncan Chisholm. To open the show, Duncan leads his own quartet in a selection of fiendishly catchy dance tunes, before South Africa's leading show choir take the stage with an assortment of traditional music, pop and jazz.

Seoul in the City

South Korea is developing a reputation as one of the world's great cultural centres. We are delighted to present a snapshot of Korean culture in the City of London, from some of the most gifted young artists emerging from the rich classical music scene to the brilliant mix of traditional and contemporary Korean music with Ensemble Sinawi. Street dance in the form of B-Boys has such popularity that the City of Seoul have their own representative team – the Gamblerz Crew, who will be lighting up the streets of our City. Add to this an extraordinary production of Hamlet and an Anglo-Korean performance of Beethoven 9 (p.4) and you have some idea why South Korea is emerging as a major cultural powerhouse.

Thank you to all our Seoul in the City supporters:

Cinema and the First World War

Filmmaker, writer, historian and Academy Award winner Kevin Brownlow presents this talk about the response of directors and studios in Europe and America to the Great War. Using film clips and archive extracts, the talk examines the fact that by 1914 cinema was embedded in the cultural life of communities throughout Britain, and for many people, films and newsreels provided their main source of information about life at the front.

Tickets £7.60 - £9.50 (booking fees apply – 60p online and 70p by phone)

Rock the Boat Street Guitars

Tuesday 1 – Thursday
17 July

We brought you the Street Pianos, now here's our latest shared street art... Rock the Boat Street Guitars! This summer you're invited to play twelve acoustic guitars sheltered inside brightly coloured upturned rowing boats dotted across the Square Mile. Whether you enjoy a quiet strum or you're a rock star in the making, join the two million people in the UK who regularly play guitar by visiting our Rock the Boat Street Guitars!

A book of boating songs and sea shanties is available to play at each site. Visit colf.org/streetguitars to tune up, upload your photos and videos, and access the map. Boat launches and naming ceremonies with guest guitarists take place across the City on Tuesday 1 July from 12.30pm.
